

6. Remedial Teaching for Slow Learners

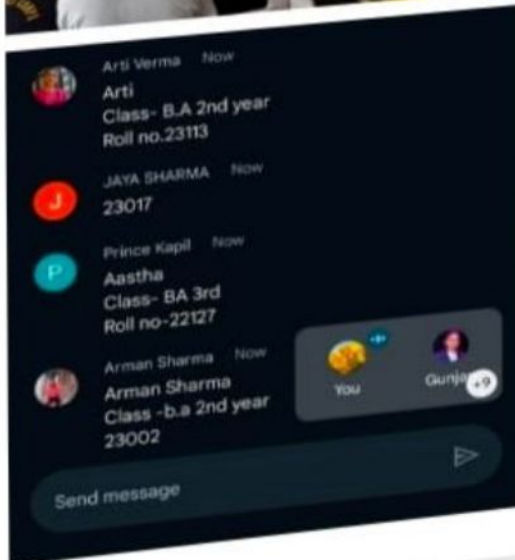

It is imperative to accommodate the requirements of students who learn at a slower pace, as each student has a unique learning style. All students are guaranteed a thorough understanding of the subject matter through the provision of additional resources, one-on-one guidance, and the simplification of content.

Extra Class- An additional class is conducted on every Sunday for students who are slow learners on Google Meet. This entails providing additional assistance to students who encounter difficulty in comprehending political concepts. This class is interactive as it involves students to discuss different concepts and ideologies. Q &A sessions are conducted to help students understand complex topics.

Identification of Slow learners- Class tests, and their performance in exams and other assessment test.

Group discussion and Peer Learning- Peer learning in political science is effective for fostering critical thinking, active participation and team work. Students work together to clarify complex political theories or concepts, allowing slow learners to benefit from diverse perspectives and explanations.

One -On -One Mentoring- provide personalized attention to the students, addressing their specific concerns
